ing eight lines fifty cents Career of Harry Buck, of Richmond.

During two years past a colored man of herculcan frame and about forty years old has neen performing as juggler at various cities in the provincial cities of France. He named himself Heary (or Harry) Buck, "the Virginian juggler," and by his extraordinary feats achieved so much celebrity that he was finally engaged at the Cirque Nationale, in Paris, where his performances every night were applantled by the delighted spectators to the Buck lived with a very light mulatto woman at a very pretty cottage in the suburbs of Passy and was fond of giving little suppers to his friends of the circus, whom he always treated with a lavish hospitality, which would have excited suspicion but for the fact that he received a salary of 200 francs a week, an extraerdinary compensation in that line of business in France. In reality, however, the juggler inereased his carnings by prowling in the night through the aristocratic suburbs of Paris as a highwayman. He must have carried on this netarious business for several months, for when his house was searched there were found nearly one hundred gold and silver watches, besides countless articles of jewelry. It was found also that he had regularly deposited in one of the Parisian savings banks sums far exceeding the salary which he received at the Carque Nationale. The manner in which he acted as a highwayman may be best seen from what occurred during the affair which led to his arrest and conviction.

On the 16th of January, between 11 and 12 p. m., Monsieur Baretre, a retired banker Paris, who owns a sumptuous villa at Passy, returned in a back from Paris to his home. The back stopped at the gate, and drove on as soon as M. M. Baretre had alighted. A second or two afterward, before the old banker had been able to open the gate, which was locked, a tall, dark form rushed upon him, and seizing him by the collar, exclaimed in a low tone, "Quick, give me your money and your watch?" M. Baretre, as a matter of ourse, was not a little startled at the sudden appearance of the stranger, and his surprise hauged to down-right terror when he looked is assailant in the face and saw that he was as back as the ace of spades, while the firm ex- $6 ression of the man's eyes lent additional significance to the threat, which he now urrered, Quick, quick, or it will be bad for you!" The | 86 old banker wanted to open his mouth, but he was silenced by the appearance of a pistol, which the mysterious and formidable highwayman levelled at his head. There was nothing left for M. Baretre but to surrender his purse and watch to the robber. "Now you will give me your handkerchief," said the robber. The banker produced it. The robber thereupon tied it very tight round the old gentleman's face, no doubt in order to blindfold and gag him at the same time. Then he dealt his vie tim a terrible blow on the head, and ran away. He had probably thought that this would stun the banker, but he was mistaken. M. Baretre wore a wig, and the latter broke the force of the blow in part. In a moment he was on his feet again tore the handkerchief from his face and cried out in a shrill voice, "Murder, rob-

"My name is Henry Buck. I am forty-one ears old. My birthplace is Richmond, in Virchia, North America, where I was a slave for twenty-two years. In 1854 I ran away from hay master, and fled to Canada. Being a good stler. I found ready employment, and finally med the circus of Mr. Van Amburgh at Toonto. I travelled with it until 1869 and learnt Mr. Samuel H. Lunt: by present business, juggling. I appeared in leady every large city in America. During the vil war. I made New York my headquarters ad being taken sick, I left the circus business, nd opened a restaurant; but I lost money, and hen went into the army of the Union, as serant in a colored regiment, but deserted soon terward, and joined another circus. In 1868 came to England, and in 1870 to France. I we been punished repeatedly in America, and wice in England, for assaults, but I have never cen long in prison. I am married and have two children. I cannot deny having assaulted e complainant. I deny to answer as to other mes I may have committed while in Paris.

s. thieves!" A peliceman stationed in a schboring avenue heard his cries, and the schwayman was arrested. M. Baretre identi-

e police commissioner in charge:

wayman was taken to the Mazas prison, in Paris and suijected to a rigid examination at the hands of the Judge d'h. of the Judge d'Instruction, who succeeded in orming a full contession out of him. From this onlession it turns out that Buck had robbed whenever the weather was favorable, and that victims had generally fallen an easy prey, his black face, which nearly all of them had taken for a nea-k, having almost always struck terror into their hearts. No one had ever spected that he was the author of these crimes. He had dressed very fashionably, and his intersurse with people in good circumstances had recluded any surveillance over his acts on the at of the police. On January 21st he was taken flere the Seine Tribunal, and on his confession the Baraire case, sentenced to five years' sportation. He was, however, sent back Mazas jail in order to be tried on numeas other charges of highway robbery, and it hardly doubtful but that he will be trans-

CUTLER'S POCKET INHALER.

It supersedes all other inhaling tubes and contrivances. It is equally adapted to the mouth and the nostril. It vaporizes and sprays. No steam required—no blowing necessary. The great obstacle to successful treatment by inhaiants, that the bottles and apparatus now used him at once at the station-house, and there dhim at once at the station-house, and there are complicated and inconvenient, is by this curious little instrument entirely overcome. It is as simple as a tin whistle, and may be carried as simple as a tin whistle, and may be carried in the pocket as handily as a penkuife or a pair of scissors. No danger of breaking; no possibility of spilling; always ready, and may be used in the house or out of doors, lying down or sitting up, with the same ease and facility as a cigarette, or a lady's smelling bottle. For sale by SAMUEL H. LUNT.

> For about five years I have been suffering with a terrible cough. Nothing prescribed for it seemed to relieve it in the least. Some months ago I secured one of "Cutler's Pocket Inhalents." It caused almost instant relief. After using it for a few weeks so marked was the improvement in my cough, that it was noticed by all my friends, and by many with whom I had but a slight acquaintance. Most heartily do I recommend its use to all who are similiarly affected. Very truly yours.

cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or mar-

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Func-tions, General Debility, Symtoms of Consump-
